

Restoration of War and Peace

Invited to produce panels for the United Nations (U.N.), the painter Cândido Portinari represented war and peace as pain and happiness. The powerful works of art came back to Brazil 53 years later, in 2010, for restoration. With the dust now removed and the colors renewed, they are expected to be exhibited in São Paulo in early 2012. Above, War before restoration.